

VARIABLE UNIVERSAL LIFE (VUL)

Variable universal life insurance (VUL) helps provide financial protection for policy beneficiaries through a death benefit paid at the insured's death. It also provides the potential for the policyowner to accumulate cash value (referred to as the accumulated value in the prospectus) as shown below.

How It Works

¹For federal income tax purposes, tax-free income assumes, among other things: (1) withdrawals do not exceed tax basis (generally, premiums paid less prior withdrawals); (2) policy remains in force until death (any outstanding policy debt at time of lapse or surrender that exceeds the tax basis will be subject to tax); (3) withdrawals taken during the first 15 policy years do not cause, occur at the time of, or during the two years prior to, any reduction in benefits; and (4) the policy does not become a modified endowment contract. See IRC §§ 72, 7702(f)(7)(B), 7702A. Any policy withdrawals, loans and loan interest will reduce policy values and may reduce benefits.

²Account options may vary based on product.

³Variable Universal Life Insurance generally requires additional premium payments after the initial premium. If either no premiums are paid, or subsequent premiums are insufficient to continue coverage, it is possible that coverage will expire.

⁴For federal income tax purposes, life insurance death benefits generally pay income tax-free to beneficiaries pursuant to IRC Section 101(a)(1). In certain situations, however, life insurance death benefits may be partially or wholly taxable. Situations include, but are not limited to: the transfer of a life insurance policy for valuable consideration unless the transfer qualifies for an exception under IRC Section 101(a)(2) (i.e. the "transfer-for-value rule"); arrangements that lack an insurable interest based on state law; and an employer-owned policy unless the policy qualifies for an exception under IRC Section 101(j).

⁵A charge of 0.025% of the accumulated value in the Indexed Account is assessed monthly, which may reduce the effective yield of the Indexed Account. This account does not directly participate in any stock or equity investments.

Neither these entities nor their representatives make any representation or assurance regarding the claims-paying ability of the life insurance company.
